In 2017 the Australian Academy of Law held a series of three events based on the theme of Ethics. They proved to be very popular, drawing large audiences. The Academy has decided to hold a similar series on 2018 on the theme of Access to Justice.

They will be held in the Banco Court of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, Level 13, Law Courts Building, Queen's Square, Sydney from 5.30 pm to 7.00 pm.

The first in the series, Access to Justice: the breadth of the concept of justice.

The second and third will be held in July and October on dates to be fixed.

At the first event a distinguished panel will address, among other things, the following topics:

- Access to lawyers
- Access to the courts
- Access to tribunals
- Alternative dispute resolution
- Local dispute resolution at community centres
- Indigenous dispute resolution

THE PANEL
